The main content area is titled 'EFFC Activities' and contains two paragraphs of text. The first paragraph describes the club's annual meetings and fishing outings. The second paragraph details winter fly-tying classes and conservation projects. Below the text is a grid of eight photographs showing various club activities, such as fly-tying workshops, group fishing trips, and social gatherings. A sidebar on the left includes the club's logo, a Facebook link, and a 'CATCH AND RELEASE' logo.

EFFC Activities

In July, the club holds its meeting on the North Fork of the Stillaguamish River to coincide with its summer steelhead outing. There is no regular meeting in December because of the Christmas Party, awards ceremony and year-end fund-raiser. In addition to gathering on the North Fork each July, the club holds a number of other group fishing outings, including a winter steelhead fishout, a spring lake fishout, and a fall cutthroat fishout. Along with these official club fishouts that have organized meals and awards, we also have some scheduled unofficial fishouts throughout the year where members simply meet to go fishing. Members also get together regularly for such projects as the June cleanup of the North Fork, a storied summer-run steelhead river that the club considers its home waters.

Each winter, members conduct a series of fly-tying classes featuring proven patterns. Rod building classes have been conducted in the past as needed. The club also supports a number of conservation related activities. We try to keep up on legislative issues affecting our sport and make our opinions known to the Legislature or state fish and wildlife officials. In addition to the river cleanup, the club sends four children to a summer conservation camp each year and donates to various non-club projects and sponsors projects of our own. In the spring of 1999 for example, the club spent two weekends planting trees along North Fork feeder creeks to support young salmon and steelhead. During 2000 and 2001 a historical monument was conceived and built on the north fork of the Stillaguamish River.

The main content area is titled 'EFFC Conservation' and contains a paragraph of text and two short text blocks with images. The paragraph describes the club's conservation principles and the role of the Conservation Committee. The first text block mentions the repair of the Haller Boat Launch. The second text block describes bug counting activities. Below the text is a grid of eight photographs showing conservation work, such as boat launch repairs, stream cleanups, and bug counting. A sidebar on the left includes the club's logo, a Facebook link, and a 'CATCH AND RELEASE' logo.

EFFC Conservation

One of the Evergreen Fly Fishing Club's cornerstone principles is conservation. Since the club's founding, our members have continuously volunteered to educate others and work with projects to save our natural resources. We have a Conservation Committee that meets monthly to discuss conservation issues and related activities that the club can participate in or promote.

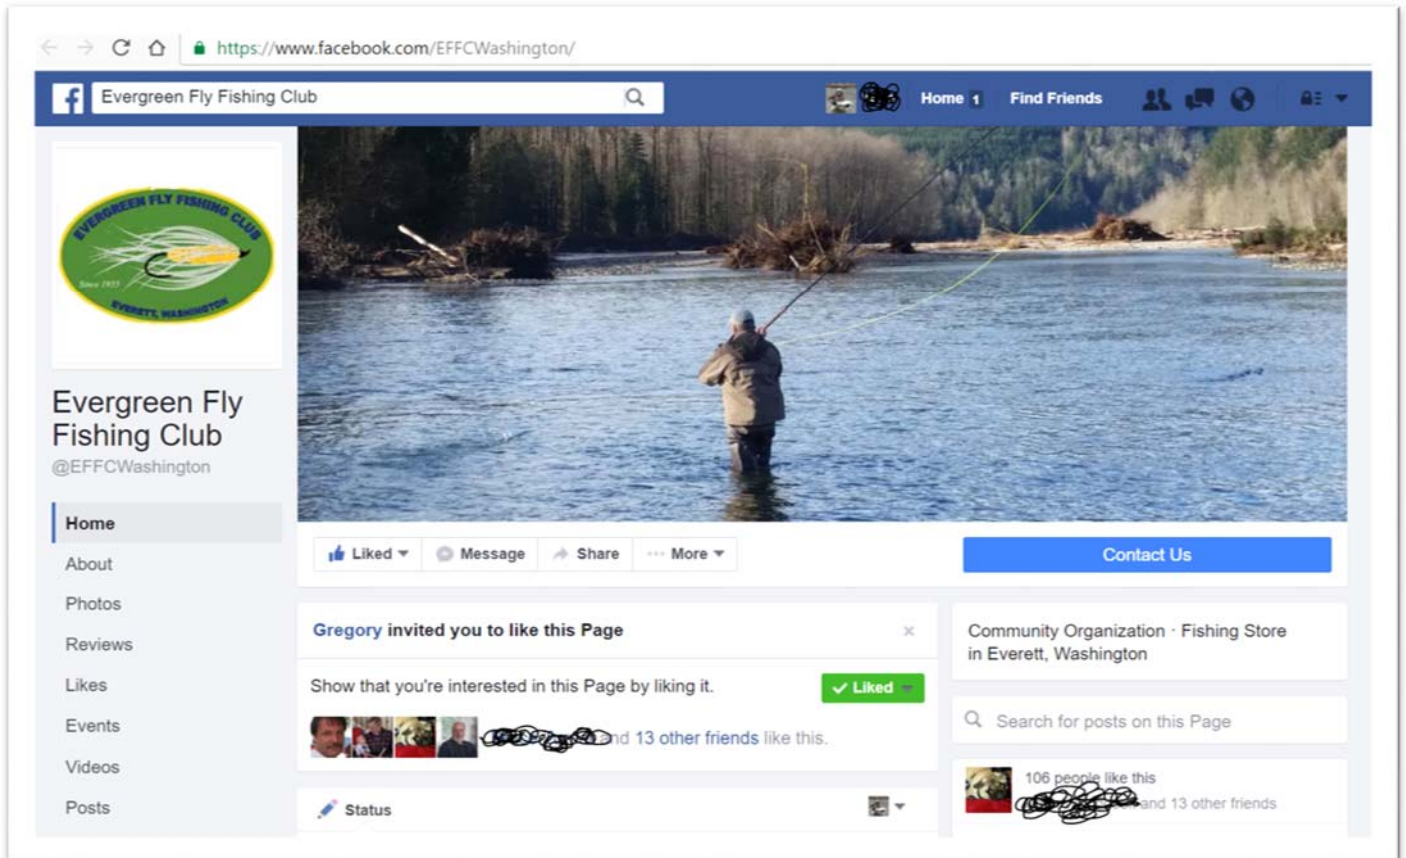

This is Haller Boat Launch were we have repaired the ramp.

Here we are counting bugs with Sound Salmon Solutions in Terio Creek to determine how healthy it is.
